10. Patrick Troughton played the 2nd incarnation of The Doctor in long-running BBC sci-fi TV show Dr. Who. Can you name the two actors that played the doctors that came before and after him? (A point for each) William Hartnell and Jon Pertwee

Special Guest:

On Screen Banner text: Scott Doonican's Big Neet In – Live from Tarn

Thank you for joining us tonight – love from Scott, Amanda & the gang.

First Appearance of : Pomply Moose

Trivia : Tonight has a "loose" St.Patrick's Night theme and is planned to be a little shorter than normal.

Scott plays his banjo that Jeremy from the Levellers has "scribbled all over"!

Ringo is awarded his chef activity badge.

Van Morrison's "Bright Side of the Road" is started but abandoned after Scott remembers Van Morrison's team pulling down a previous YouTube cover.

"When Love Runs Out of Time" is played to mark the situation in the Ukraine.

Marcel wants their own gameshow!

There is a Winter Woollies tour advert at the end of the show over an extract of "Place of Spades".

There is a brief Barnsley Bob Ross clip after the final test card.

Quotes :

“You get horrible when you’re on Scotch” (Percy to Scott)

“I didn’t know that you did opera” (Scott) “Neither did I!” (Grandpa)

“You’re not here to enjoy yourself!” (Scott to Amanda)

“I’ve progressed to the beans on the toast!” (Ringo)

“Pig solo!”

“He’s not a grand potato he’s a pomme de terre!” (Marcel)

“We haven’t got backsides, we end at the elbow!” (Morris)

“There’s nothing that can’t be made worse by adding bell!”

“I know Johnny Cash that did a good version of this one, I might not!”

“Give it up for Shergar, luckily he didn’t do the saxophone solo!”

“My accents were deliberately awry!” (Fairbanks)

Scott’s Tank Top Badges : Tom Robinson Band & Let’s Go For A Curry

Preshow Nerves : (Length: 06:40)

Records Played:

My Dark Places (Stiff Little Fingers)

General:

There will be a loose St Patrick’s Day theme to tonight’s main show as it’s the closest Saturday to St Patrick’s Day as Scott is able to do.

He’s wearing his primary-coloured tank top over a red shirt, with two badges – a large black Tom Robinson Band one, with a yellow clenched fist and lettering running around the edge, and a “Let’s Go For A Curry” one, with a white background and black letters.

He mentions that he and Amanda were at Crookes Folk Club in Sheffield last night, testing the waters with some songs from the Doonicans’ yet-to-be-released Rugh & Ryf album.

Alan did his first solo show this afternoon at the Whitwell Winter Warmer.

Scott isn’t sure if he’s going to do a BNI next month, given that people are returning to normality in greater numbers. “Are we going to be the last die-hard streamers on the net? I don’t know. We’ll see how it goes.”

He cranks up the music. “I’ll see you guys in a bit. 8 o’clock on YouTube. Don’t be late.”

Aftershow – (Length: 37:41)

Location: The Pint & Puppet

Songs Played:

People Are Strange (The Doors)

Bright Side Of The Road (Van Morrison)

Back Street Girl (The Rolling Stones)

Midnight Sky (Miley Cyrus)

Sally MacLennane (The Pogues)

Photosynthesis (Frank Turner)

Golden Ticket Winner: Jon Phipps

General:

Once again the aftershow opens with Scott asking Amanda if she'd like help putting the puppets back and Amanda saying no because he'll put them in the wrong place :) Scott assures her he knows where they go, but she's having none of it. He hands them to her instead.

Both Scott and Amanda are feeling tired after doing two evenings of back-to-back shows – the first being a Scott solo at Crookes Folk Club in Sheffield, followed by Big Neet In. They both really enjoyed the Sheffield show, which was a tiny 20-people-only gig to trial new songs from Rugh & Ryf.

Scott tunes his guitar as Amanda tries to find out how many viewers there are, but Facebook is not playing ball and she can't see numbers on screen. She calls for fans to let them know on the chat thread.

Doonifan Dave Holdgate informs everyone he had a bacon and cheese sandwich on a hot cross bun earlier. "What the fk's wrong with him?" asks a bemused Scott. He then bursts into a fit of giggles as he realises he made the rather rude comment out loud.

The Doors' People Are Strange is the first song. Scott thinks it could easily have been the theme tune to Big Neet In. "There's nowt wrong with embracing the weird," he says. "Some people may think that what we've been doing for the last two years is weird, but we don't care."

In the early days of the Doonicans Scott covered a Van Morrison song and Morrison's team pulled it down off YouTube. He further upset them at Wickham while referring to Van as The Grand Potato. This anecdote leads into song number two: Van Morrison's Bright Side Of The Road. Mid song, Scott and Amanda's Alexa suddenly starts blaring out a Taylor Swift tune, leaving Scott perplexed. He switches her off and continues singing.

Then it's a Rolling Stones' number – Back Street Girl. Amanda pans around the room as Scott is singing, homing in on puppets, a miniature robot and a Gloria McGlumpher 'superlative curtains' award.

Scott dedicates the next song to Lil' Jim. It's Miley Cyrus' Midnight Sky. The two covered this song during an earlier Big Neet In.

Sally MacLennane by the Pogues follows, dedicated to Fairport Convention fan Adrian Wontroba, who passed away this week.

A third dedication remembers Doonifan Andrea Wright who died last November. It's Frank Turner's Photosynthesis.

Then it's over to the bench for a sit down with Amanda. Scott mentions some upcoming solo gigs, including Stonnall and Leek, and says he's helping to arrange the Holmfirth Festival Of Folk again.

"Have fund you crazy kids, we're gonna listen to The Pogues. Goodnight!"
